

Focal PLLC, a twelve-attorney firm based in Seattle (with a focus on technology, media, and internet law), is seeking an experienced litigation attorney to support our growing litigation practice. This is a full-time position with benefits.

Our firm handles a range of litigation matters including: commercial disputes, cases involving scraping/aggregation, brand protection matters, copyright and trademark disputes (including in front of the Trademark Trial and Appeals Board), corporate divorces, cannabis disputes, and arbitrations.

The ideal candidate would have the following qualifications:

- Minimum 4-6 years of experience.
- Ability to manage all aspects of a case, ranging from intake to conclusion.
- Experience with trademark and copyright disputes. (A plus, but not required.)
- Strong writing and editing skills.
- E-Discovery experience.
- Judicial clerkship. (A plus, but not required.)
- Ability to work remotely from other team members. The candidate needs to be comfortable using collaboration tools (e.g., using Google Suite, Slack, email, conference calls, etc.).
- Proficiency and competency using online tools and basic technology (e.g., converting Google Docs to Word). It's important that our lawyers, in addition to our firm's paralegals and support staff, have the ability to format and file their own documents.
- A desire to evaluate cases from a business standpoint. For example, the lawyer should have some ability to evaluate whether or not we want to take a particular matter on a contingency basis.
- Demonstrated interest in marketing, business development, and overall practice development.
